ORDER

By my judgment, review of which has been sought for in this review petition, I have dismissed the original petition on the ground that without challenging the original court martial proceedings or the dismissal order, the petitioner cannot succeed in the original petition. Review petition is now filed on the ground that the petitioner intends to amend the original petition seeking to challenge those orders also. This is not a ground for reviewing the judgment and therefore, I do not find any merit in the review petition and accordingly the same is dismissed.
